SEAoNY Holiday Party 2018
Brenden's Bar & Grill, Midtown
December 6, 2018

In December 6th, members and guests of SEAoNY's Young Member Group celebrated the holidays and the end of another successful year at Brendans Bar & Grill in Midtown New York. Close to 50 attendees representing a cross-section of structural engineering firms in New York. Attendees were treated to a two-hour open bar and a tasty selection of canapés. Besides the opportunity to catch up with old engineering friends and perhaps meet some new, there was also an assortment of games on offer for those feeling a little more competitive on the night. Jenga, anybody?

Some guests got into the Christmas spirit by sporting Santa hats and ugly Christmas sweaters, adding to the selection of props on hand for photo-booth style photos. Attendees were encouraged to upload their best photos to Instagram where they could tag and follow SEAoNY's new page. A competition was held for the best tagged photo which was won by McNamara Salvias Teddy Jeanty, who took home an Amazon gift voucher for his efforts. Congrats, Teddy! You can follow SEAoNY's Instagram page @seaonyc where we will post upcoming event information, engineering photos from across the state and city and other items of interest (i.e. engineering memes).

Not to be deterred by our designated area closing, a bunch of revelers carried on the party with the general public in the main area downstairs. Heres hoping there werent too many sore heads the next day! Thanks to all those who came along, to Brendans for once again hosting, and to those who helped organize the event.

The SEAoNY YMG committee are excited about a big 2019 ahead of us. On February 27th, we are hosting our annual lecture at the Center for Architecture by AWCs Michelle Kam-Biron, titled "The Wood Evolution, which will be followed up by our annual museum social in April. We hope to see you at another event soon.
